Correction Enterprises wins three printing awards

RALEIGH – The North Carolina Correction Enterprises Print Plant located at Nash Correctional Institution in Nashville has been chosen as a winner of three prestigious PICA Awards given by The Printing Industry of the Carolinas, Inc.

Since 1966, the PICA Awards have been the premier symbol of excellence for the graphics industry in North Carolina and South Carolina. The awards demonstrate a company's commitment to excellence in graphics communications.

Correction Enterprises received a Best of Category Award for printing done for NC Wildlife Education, a Special Judges Award for Season's Greeting cards and an Award of Excellence for Environmental Education Presentation Folders produced for the Department of Environment and Natural Resources.

The Correction Enterprise Print Plant has a history of printing excellence and has won four PICA Awards previously. Print plant employees focus on job skills training and educating the plant's inmate workforce.

The Printing Industry of the Carolinas Inc. is a trade association representing the graphic communications industry in North Carolina and South Carolina.
